Thursday & Friday, November 21 & 22, 2024 * 8:15AM to 12:15PM via

YES! You can quickly learn how to improve your thought processes and achieve higher quality solutions when you attend this pioneering training. Contrary to popular belief, critical thinking (CT), problem-solving (PS) and decision-making (DM) skills do not take a lifetime to master.

This four-session (half-day) online training is designed and will focus on those mutually reinforcing skill sets featuring the proprietary RISE framework, world-class learning tools, best practices techniques, practical exercises and examples that will enable you to think in a more strategic, effective and productive way. You are encouraged to bring an actual workplace problem to the training, look for root causes, and arrive at the best possible solutions. It also includes a unique module on how to sell and implement your solutions.

It is highly recommended not only for those who struggle to solve problems but also to everyone who wants to be a better student, professional, manager, leader, board director, or business owner. CT-PS-DM skills are essential for you and your organization's success! This is applicable to everyone in all types of organizations and professions.

Course Director & Master Trainer: Nelson T. Dy is an author, thought leader, trainer, advocate, and workshop facilitator of topics such as critical thinking, public speaking, coaching, quality life & work purpose, and spirituality.
